NEWSLETTER NUMBER 33

Michael & Christine Ford
October 2015

It was with much sadness and some shock that in late September 2015 the Committee learned that Christine had developed lung cancer and felt that it would be best if she resigned from her Committee post as Events Organiser. Sometime later Michael decided that in order to fully care for Christine at this difficult time it would also be advisable if he resigned.

As you can imagine the Committee's first thought was "how could we possibly replace them?" Both Michael and Christine have worked on the Committee in many different roles for at least 15 years. We felt they were irreplaceable!

Michael brought calm, analytical thought and measured responses to Committee decisions as well as charm and energy to the role of chairman and could always be relied upon to be the ambassador and make new members and guests feel warmly welcomed.

Christine was a fount of knowledge about event organising – there wasn't a stone unturned when it came to getting the best deal for association events. She worked tirelessly and spent many hours either on her

News from the Chair

Firstly, can I take this opportunity to wish you all a belated Happy New Year and I sincerely hope that 2016 proves to be a good year for everyone.

We got off to a busy start to 2016 with the Committee working very hard on your behalf. There are a number of exciting events and venues being organized, which, I'm sure you will all find enjoyable. One of which is a reunion in Germany to include Members and serving teachers in BAOR. More details in future newsletters when they are firmed up.

For those of you who were not able to make the Annual General Meeting and reunion dinner at the Royal Society in London, Mike Ford, our previous Chairman and Christine, his wife, asked that a letter they had written to the Association membership explaining why they were standing down from the roles of Chairman and Events Organiser, be read out. This letter can now be viewed on the HOME PAGE of our website www.BFES-SCEA-Association.org

If you have friends and colleagues who served abroad and are not yet members please do encourage them to join the Association. I am sure they would value the opportunity to enjoy wonderful reunion venues and the company and contacts they provide.

I look forward to meeting you at future reunions.

Glyn Pascoe

AΩ JHQ

In May 1945 the unconditional surrender of Nazi Germany was achieved and the Allied Forces met in the central axis of the mutilated remains of Germany. Their immediate task was to control the "zones" into which Germany had (by agreement at Yalta) been divided. That task is described in its full complexity in Churchill's "War History". In each "zone" the task consisted in feeding the stricken and swollen population, disarming the Wehrmacht, setting up civilian administration, reviving agriculture and peaceful trade, and re-educating the people for a growing measure of responsible government. The British Zone Forces set up their HQ in Bad Oeynhausen and at Bad Eilsen respectively: two Spa Towns in North Rhein Westphalia. The HQ of the Flag Officer Germany was similarly settled in Minden to direct the process of Naval disarmament. And at that time no apparent need for a strategical concept (that became JHQ) was envisioned.

That scene soon changed as it became evident that peace and disarmament were not likely to proceed undisturbed.

The site for JHQ was chosen in 1952 out of a possible five choices within the triangle formed by Aachen, Roermond and Mönchengladbach. The area was a mixture of fields and forest which had to be cleared before any construction could get under way. Work on the ground started in 1953 and moved on at a frantic pace. The original HQ was formed with one computer, on the telephone or travelling around the country exploring possible venues. You may not know this but Christine, often accompanied by Michael, visited almost every venue we used, sometimes going twice! All events were meticulously organised and Christine was constantly assessing the event whilst it was in progress and making sure everyone was not only enjoying themselves, but having the best service possible.

There is so much to be written about the work Michael and Christine undertook on behalf of the Committee that the newsletter would need to be double the size to contain it all! So we will conclude by saying we will miss their professionalism, organisational skills, ability to work hard and efficiently and most of all their smiling faces at Committee meetings. Michael and Christine, we can't thank you both enough for all you did and wish you both all the very best for the future and send our prayers for Christine's health.

side reserved for Northern Army Group (NORTHAG) and the other for the Second Allied Tactical Air Force (2ATAF). There was also room for the Royal Navy and the Flag Officer Germany, however the Navy soon decided that they had no need to be situated in the HQ. The space made available was however quickly filled by BAOR and RAF(G).

Because NORTHAG and 2ATAF were multi-national HQs, the camp at JHQ had a wide range of service personnel stationed both at JHQ and in the surrounding areas. British, American, Canadian, German Dutch and Belgians made up the original manning of the HQ.

The fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and the end of the Cold War saw, with time, the need for such a major HQ diminish. In later years HQ ARRC (Allied Rapid Reaction Corps) took over a large part of the HQ building after being originally formed in Bielefeld in 1992.

The departure of the ARRC for Gloucestershire in 2010 saw the beginning of the end for JHQ though it freed up office space for HQ SCE in the Headquarters' Building.

Down to some 18 personnel in September 2013, JHQ was formally handed over to the German Authorities on 13th December 2013.

A 60 page photo book (with appropriate quotes) compiled by Tom Nielsen-Marsh documenting the final 15 months of JHQ is available at a cost of £49 including UK postage. Further information from bfes\_scea\_newsletter@yahoo.co.uk

A Blast from the Past

Tropical Depression Keith

As we approached October 2000 the end of the hurricane season was in sight and it was quietly felt that there would be no further excitement in store for us weather-wise. That was until the last weekend of September!

Tropical depression Keith had arrived off the north-east coast of Belize, and, after drifting westwards across the Caribbean it was now stationary and gathering strength. By late Saturday afternoon Keith had been upgraded to a Category 1 hurricane and the British Army Training and Support Unit Belize (BATSUB) Hurricane Orders came into force. Whilst husbands began securing the camp, wives prepared their homes for the battering that would inevitably follow.

MFO boxes (for valuables) and sandbags were delivered to each house. Families were told to close all windows and shutters and pack one suitcase per person. As we went to bed that night it was raining very heavily and the wind was blowing fiercely. By 3am on Sunday morning Keith had risen to Category 4. We were woken at 5am by a heavily cagouled soldier hammering on our front door. "Reduce your suitcases to one per family. You are leaving in twenty minutes" he told us. The Commanding Officer had decided to evacuate the families.

A small convoy of vehicles soon rolled out of Price Barracks in driving wind and rain. Two hours later a concerned and tired group of mothers and children arrived at the residence of the British High Commissioner to Belize in Belmopan, which was to be our home for the next five days.

For the rest of the week the BHG clubhouse doubled as a dormitory for adults at night and schoolroom for the children by day. Lessons took place for three hours in the morning and two in the afternoon and included English, maths, science and design technology. Our resources consisted of a ream of white A4 paper, a small number of pens and pencils, a pack of cards, three balls of differing sizes, five dice, a pile of old newspapers and some masking tape.

We were able to go for one very wet and windy walk and, once the rain had abated, we visited the national Assembly of Belize (The House of Government) and organized a nature ramble. During our stay in the Capital we ate Army compo rations supplied by the training team and expertly prepared by the mothers on a rota basis. Evening entertainment was mainly videos for the children and conversation for the adults. Outside it was lashing with rain and blowing a gale – there was nowhere else to go!

Every evening the High Commissioner held a meeting to update everyone on the position and strength of Keith and to give us news of what was happening in the areas most affected by the storm. We had scant news of what was happening at Price Barracks.

As Keith crossed the east coast of the Yucatan peninsula it weakened considerably, the wind calmed and the rain stopped. The people of Belmopan emerged from their houses to start clearing up. Being 50 miles inland the damage was not too severe. In other areas of the country, especially the north-east, homes, hotels and businesses had been badly damaged and some completely destroyed. There was no fresh water and no electricity on Ambergris Caye or Caye Caulker.

British soldiers from Exercise Native Trail and sailors from HMS Cardiff and RFA Black Rover were drafted in to help restore order to the most affected areas. On Thursday morning we headed home along broken, flooded roads. Evidence of damage was all around us: trees, power lines, even houses had blown over. At more than one point the flood water crossed the road and stretched as far as the eye could see on either side.

When we arrived, Price Barracks appeared relatively unscathed. What we did not know then was that the men of BATSUB and the locally employed Belizean staff had worked long hours to clear the debris of broken buildings and fallen trees. After lunch in the Mess we returned to our homes to assess the damage. Fortunately there was little or none. The flood water covering one end of the camp to a depth of two feet had not reached the married quarters.

School re-opened the next day - at least there was no HMI inspection this time!

* The Grigg Committee of 1952 was formed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Master of the Rolls. The chairman of this committee on departmental records was Sir James Grigg, a former Permanent Under Secretary of the War Office.

Legislation was required to implement many of the Grigg Committee's recommendations and the Public Records Act of 1958 was the result. This Act still governs the way the Association Archive operates.

It came into force on 1 January 1959 to provide the statutory framework for the new system, and for the new relationship between the PRO and departments. It transferred responsibility for public records and the PRO to the Lord Chancellor, and placed the day to day management of the PRO in the hands of a Keeper of Public Records.

For the first time a statutory, general

From the Archives

Extracts from the Queen's Courier school magazine – Christmas 1958.
Mr JV Taylor, Headmaster

"One of the results of splitting up a school year into three terms is that the year seems to pass with a most unusual rapidity. There are always examinations or holidays just a few weeks ahead, and in the anxiety to fill each week with its due quota of work the passage of the months tends to be overlooked. It seems a very short time since Queen's Courier first appeared and yet these notes are now being written for the third edition of a magazine that has already established itself as a worthy companion to the publications of other BFES schools".

"At the time of writing these notes our numbers are 554, a number we would almost have been prepared to swear we could not deal with – until we tried it and found we could."

"The numbers of staff too have increased and during the year our new recruits have included Mrs Joslin, Mrs Davey, Miss Baxter, Miss Smith, Miss Hudson, Miss Worton, Mr Stephens and Mr Weatherhead ... An old member of staff also appeared in new guise, since Mr Chignell was appointed Deputy Headmaster."

"Though not occurring in 1958 mention must be made here of the Christmas play which was produced by the school in the Garrison Theatre. This was an outstanding performance, both for the beauty of the staging and costumes, and the singing. According to some, the Angels were particularly to be congratulated on a fine piece of acting, since their stage performance was so quite out of keeping with their character as known in school".

"During the year we have been honoured to receive visits from a number of distinguished guests. These have included General Sir Charles Loewen, The Adjutant-General, Major General Brocklehurst, GOC Rhine District, Major General Moore-Coulson, Director of Army Education, Air Vice-Marshal Kermodé, Director of Educational Services of the RAF, Mr Howard, a member of the Grigg Committee*, and Sir Ifor Evans, Chairman of the Army Education Advisory Board".

"All these signs of the vitality one can feel in the school and give tangible proof of it. And there are also signs that though Queens may be the most junior of the BFES schools, it is maturing and growing up – fast".

Walter Lewis – Association Archivist writes that the material the final Headteacher (Brian Davies) of Windsor School forwarded to him (Windsor, Kent (photo right) and Queen's amalgamated at the JHQ site and the "new" Windsor School opened in September 1987) has created one of the fullest records that the London Institute of Education (IoE) hold for the BFES/SCEA Association - very much due to Brian's diligence in gathering so much before closure.

"The closure of Windsor and dealing with all the archive material seems like yesterday not two and a half years ago. Much has happened since".

All the material was deposited with the professional archivists at the IoE in November 2014 and has been catalogued and placed on-line. It took a long time to collate and annotate! As Walter is gathering more and more memorabilia each year, especially with so many schools now rushing towards closure, the Association is very grateful for the excellent efforts of the IoE's professional archivists in getting our archives catalogued and placed on-line. The only deposits which have not yet been dealt with are those placed last November 2015 - mainly dealing with the closure of schools in the Fallingbostel/Hohne area in July 2015.

public right of access was given after 50 years – with arrangements for exceptions – to public records transferred to the PRO or to a place of deposit elsewhere appointed by the Lord Chancellor.

The Dandelion The Flower of the Military Child

"The official flower of the military child is the dandelion. Why? The plant puts down roots almost anywhere, and it's almost impossible to destroy. It's an unpretentious plant, yet good looking. It's a survivor in a broad range of climates. Military children bloom everywhere the winds carry them. They are hardy and upright. Their roots are strong, cultivated deeply in the culture of the military, planted swiftly and surely. They're ready to fly in the breezes that take them to new adventures, new lands, and new friends.

Experts say that military children are well-rounded, culturally aware, tolerant, and extremely resilient. Military children have learned from an early age that home is where their hearts are, that a good friend can be found in every corner of the world,

Athletics Meeting – Rheindahlen 1972

The Primary Schools' Athletics Meeting was held on the Army Running Track recently. After a heavy downpour in the morning the weather brightened in time for the start of the meeting. The fifteen competing schools provided a splendid afternoon's entertainment. An 800 m race was run for the first time, and I am sure that there were many adults who admired the spirit and determination of the competitors – an example of which is shown in the photograph.

A. Brzezicki

From an article in The Rheindahlen Bulletin (no26) - August 1972.

A Smooth Journey

Closure

This time last year (2015) Bergen Hohne Garrison was preparing for closure and saying good bye to some 6000 soldiers, families and employees as they moved on to pastures new. Everyone prepared themselves for the journey ahead hoping for a smooth ride.

The five schools on Bergen Hohne Garrison played a major part in making sure that the transition for the children and families was free from hurdles making the journey smooth and as stress free as possible. All the staff knew that the most essential ingredient was preparing the children emotionally for the next few months. Staff in all five schools worked tirelessly to make sure that all the children were equipped with the emotional resilience and skills for the big move. Much of the preparation was done through the "Arts"; drama, music and art which gave the children opportunities to express their feelings and discuss the move ahead. The schools joined together to create a DVD of memories from each school with the joint choir singing "Drop in the Ocean" and every child received a copy of the DVD to help them on their journey. This move would start a ripple which would reach out to all parts of the world as the families moved away from Bergen Hohne Garrison.

Montgomery and Slim Primary Schools created four large tapestries which depicted many of the children's memories. One would stay in Bergen Ratskeller (town hall) and the other three would go to the other main towns or garrisons where the families would be living – Albemarle Barracks (Newcastle), Catterick Garrison and Bourne.

The Catterick Garrison tapestry was officially handed over at Ripon Cathedral during the "New Beginnings" ceremony of remembrance and then ended its journey at the Catterick Garrison library (NYCC) where it was officially unveiled. Ex pupils from Germany who now attend Carnagill, Hipswell, Le Cateau and Wavell attended the unveiling. They all made three wishes for the journey into the future. The wishes were written on yellow hands that would make dandelions (symbol of the service child) which are now displayed in the library alongside the tapestry.

To date, most of the children have settled really well and most of their wishes included meeting old friends left behind and the desire to meet and make new ones.

By Lynn Eckersley Headteacher, Montgomery School (Retired).

and that education doesn't only come from school. They live history. They learn that to survive means to adapt, that the door that closes one chapter of their life opens up to a new and exciting adventure full of new friends and new experiences."

Did you know???

The British School Viborg in Denmark

SCE once had a little-known outpost in Denmark. The British School in Viborg provided English education for primary aged children of MOD and Service personnel from the nearby NATO base. Postings were individual and usually for two years - so as in most SCE schools - children arrived and departed at different times throughout the year.

Normally there were around 20 children on roll and two teaching staff. Having so few children had positive advantages but also presented organizational and planning challenges. Usually the headteacher taught 7 to 11 year olds in Class 2 and his/her colleague taught the younger children in Class1.

In addition there were usually two classroom assistants and a school secretary. In the summer of 2001 the secretary and chief dispenser of plasters and TLC was Ann Wille-Jørgensen, who had been with the school for 17 years

Small classes meant that both the headteacher and colleague were able to do much more individual teaching than they could in a larger school. It was often "the difference between teaching and baby-sitting: a wonderful opportunity to help children achieve their full potential".

For the headteacher the challenge of combining class teaching and headship was finding time to deal with the paperwork and administration; a supply teacher was often drafted in for two afternoons each week to help out.

Like other SCE schools at the time it was possible to take in fee-payers although no additional central funding was forthcoming. In 2001 they had a Polish student; previously they had a Chinese boy and some Americans giving an international feel to the school. It naturally gave the British children a view of other cultures and languages.

The school itself, on the ground floor of an annex to the Danish school, consisted of two classrooms and Ann Wille-Jørgensen's school office. Above them was the German school, also catering for NATO children.

Some of the Danish school's facilities were shared including the library, music and drama rooms and the gym. They also used the school theatre for productions, the children often playing two or three different parts, and every week a Danish teacher gave the children a "language and culture" session. Staggered playtimes allowed them to use the well-equipped playground.

The intimacy of the small classes and increased individual contact between teachers and pupils made for a happy and productive environment for everyone.

"In a small school like Viborg it's rewarding to see all the children mixing so well and helping each other regardless of age difference".

Sixties Singapore

I taught at Alexandra Junior School, where Mrs Boswell was the Head and Graham Manley the Deputy, from September 1968 until December 1970. Since then I went back in 1992 and 1995 and still find Singapore a vibrant place and one of the best cities to visit. School there was early to start and early to finish before it was too hot. Ceiling fans scattering anything lightweight in the classroom, girls in green and white dresses and those children whose blond hair turned a strange greenish colour in the water from the swimming pools!

Friday 24th June 2016 sees the start of a Weekend of Celebration of Blankenhagen School in Gütersloh

It is hoped to cover the closure in the summer or autumn edition of the Newsletter.
